Africa Turns Out for Crowning of "King of Kings"

Quarter Million Abyssinians Wait on Solomon's Son

Ras Tafari Claims Solomon and Sheba His Ancestors

AN ANCIENT EMPIRE 6,000 Years of History Look Down On Event This Sunday

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A quarter million tribesmen camped about the walls of this city today awaiting the coronation of the King of Kings and the Queen of Queens tomorrow.

The coronation Sunday is drawing hundreds of thousands of tribesmen out of the interior of East Africa. The roads and trails of this 6,000-year-old empire have been crowded for a week with loyal chiefs and followers bent on celebrating the event in their capital city.

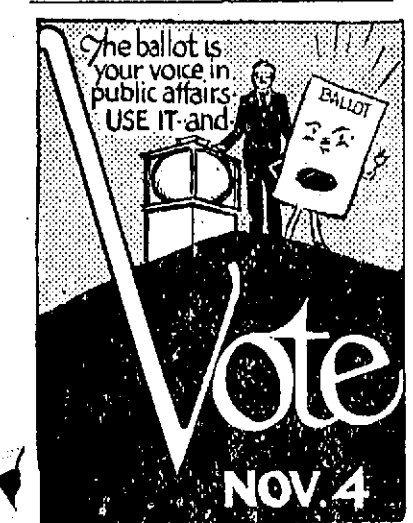

In the center of the picture is Ras Tafari, who proclaims himself King of Kings, and who believes he is a direct descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

Since the days of the Pharaohs has there been such an outpouring of native peoples as for the coronation of King Tafari.

Great Oil Gusher Holds Fire Threat in Oklahoma City

C. E. Stout Well Terrorizes Area of 36 Blocks of Householders

BUILDING BONNET

John Gordon, Who Stopped "Wild Mary" Comes to Rescue

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The wild oil gusher which has terrorized the city this week, continued its threat of fire disaster today despite the best efforts of oil men to bring the giant oil and gas well under control.

Great black clouds of oil soot and live gas drifted slowly across thousands of abandoned houses in the beleaguered section of the city as workers strove frantically to complete the big steel "bonnet" with which they hoped to cap the well and shut off the flow of oil and gas.

Oil men said today that the fire hazard had been lessened somewhat overnight by the diffusion of low-hanging gas clouds which for a time made a perpetual threat of explosion.

The danger area of the city has now been reduced to only 36 blocks, in which territory all schools and public meetings have been suspended, street traffic is prohibited, and few householders are living at home during the activity of the big well.

John Gordon, who gained fame by conquering the "Wild Mary" well, famous in Oklahoma history, has been placed in charge of the work to bring the C. E. Stout well under control. The Stout well is flowing 50,000 barrels of oil a day, and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

Methodists Will Celebrate Birth

100th Anniversary To Be Observed At Pine Bluff This Month

PINE BLUFF, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A great street pageant commemorating the 100th anniversary of the establishment of "Methodism" in Arkansas, and portraying church historical events of a century ago, will be given here by students of events of a century ago, will be given here by students of Hendrix-Henderson College of Conway, during the approaching session of the Little Rock Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The conference will begin November 11, and continue through November 16.

The pageant will be given on the opening night. An afternoon parade is planned as a part of the Armistice Day celebration.

The pageant, "Early Days in Arkansas," is laid in three scenes, the first of which will portray the founding of the first Methodist society at Pine Bluff in 1830 by the Rev. John Henry. The play was written by Mrs. Maud M. Turpin of Nashville, Tenn. She obtained her material from the library of Hendrix-Henderson College. About 60 students of the college dramatic club will compose the cast, under direction of Miss Vivian Hill, director.

A quiting bee, and Barn raising visit of the Methodist circuit rider to the cabin homes of early settlers; a typical "camp meeting"; and a reproduction of the first session of the Arkansas conference at Batesville in 1836, are some of the high lights of the play.

The parade is expected to be one of the most impressive ever held in the state. The line probably will be several miles in length. Floats typifying primitive meeting houses, covered wagons, ox carts, with portrayals of Indians, will be included in the parade.

Bishop H. M. Dobbs and his cabinet will ride in the parade, preceded by supernumerary ministers on horseback, and followed by other members of the conference marching four abreast.

Body of Man Killed in Memphis Holdup Named

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Police said a bandit shot to death during a theatre holdup here October 18, was identified Thursday as J. Wales, Paducah, Kentucky.

Bobby Bonham, county work house prisoner, convicted of larceny, saw the body and said it was that of Wales. The proprietor of a rooming house agreed. He said Wales had not been seen since the bandit was killed.

Bonham said the man asked him to aid in the theater robbery and staged it alone when Bonham was convicted of another charge.

The bandit was shot as he fled with $90. He was killed by a chauffeur into whose car he leaped. The body has been held for identification.

Pick-Up-Service for Freight Today

Hope Transfer Co. Is Made Agent for Missouri Pacific

The new pick-up service for local freight shipments inside of Arkansas will be put into use today by the Missouri Pacific Transportation Co. E. G. Coop and his Hope Transfer company have been appointed local trucking agent for the railroad company. They will deliver all local freight shipments to the merchant's door without any additional charge other than the usual rail tariff.

The arrangement is made through the Missouri Pacific Transportation company—which is the bus division of the Missouri Pacific Railroad company—and goods must be handled in that manner. But in actual practice the pick-up service applies to all freight, whether shipped by railroad car or railroad truck.

Hope merchants were told of the new service at a meeting with railroad officials here last week, and unanimously approved the railroad company's new program. The Missouri Pacific at that time made a plea for loyalty to all the railroad services entering the city, claiming that they had helped Hope in the past and were a source of great aid for the future.

50-Per-Cent Here Beats Other Counties Except East Arkansas

A detailed study of cotton ginnings reports from all Arkansas counties as of October 18 shows Hempstead county to rank well up among the leaders with 49.6 per cent as many bales as in 1929.

Only one county in the state—Mississippi county—is showing an increase over 1929 or 1930. This same county originally reported an estimate of 50 per cent. But on October 18 it had ginned 70,356 bales against 57,755 on the same date in 1929.

East Arkansas counties for the most part showed good percentages, from 60 to 75 per cent of the 1929 ginnings. But over the balance of the state the ginnings this year were running only 25 to 33 per cent.

Hempstead, with 9,492 bales this October 18th against 19,111 last October, probably leads all the counties outside of the East Arkansas bottomlands.

Here are the figures on 14 counties which had ginned approximately 20,000 bales or more apiece on October 18 last year:

County	1929	1930
Ashley	10,447	23,441
Gloucester	12,747	23,866
Columbia	8,337	27,358

Lincoln	21,588	33,066
Lonoke	70,356	57,755

Farm Champions Banqueted Friday; Over 70 Present

County-Wide Meeting at Barlow Proves Great Success

WINNERS ARE THERE

Guests Welcomed by Dr. W. R. Anderson—Miss Derryberry Replies

The banquet room of Hotel Barlow in this city has been the scene of many notable and memorable occasions. Last night it witnessed a meeting of Hempstead county champions. Many of them are champions now who tomorrow will be leaders in the life of Hempstead county.

This meeting and banquet was given in honor of the 4-H club winners and others who have made outstanding records along agricultural pursuits in Hempstead county.

Approximately 70 guests were seated at the banquet table, among this number the world's champion watermelon grower, his two sons, the county agricultural and home demonstration agents, 4-H club members, farmers who farm, and Hope business and professional men and women, many of them also champions in their line of endeavor.

Van Jones Presides
A champion presided over the meeting. Van Jones, of Fulton, twice champion cotton grower of the county, and expected to win this title for the third time this year. Mr. Jones is also president of the 4-H club council and is a student this year at the A. & M. college at Magnolia.

Among the other champions introduced were:

O. D. Middlebrooks and his sons, watermelons, George F. Dodds, who has won more prizes this year than any other Hempstead county citizen, in poultry; Winston Cobb, 4-H member who won a trip to the National Dairy Show at St. Louis on an essay; Elinor McWilliams, winner of the Room Improvement contest for 4-H girls; Faye Samuels, winner of the garden project for junior member of 4-H work; Opal Samuels a-canning champion; Lykins Padgett, 4-H member, who told the story of feeding for a ton litter; Sloman Goodlett, a member of the State Dairy judging team from Hempstead county. Other members of this team were Gladis Tollett and Nolan Lewallen. Mrs. Riley Lewallen was introduced as a winner in the better homes contest for the women of the county.

The welcome address of the evening was given by Dr. W. R. Anderson, pastor of First Presbyterian church. His address was timely and thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The Response

Miss Audrie Derryberry, 4-H club member, responded to the welcome address in a creditable manner. She received hearty applause when she said, "I hope this will be the beginning of more such meetings." Miss Derryberry is one of the winners in a garden project of the county, having realized $155.67 from her garden this season. This is more money than many farmers of the county have realized from their entire field crop.

Miss Martha Jane Bucher, home demonstration agent, spoke on the work she has accomplished in the county. 300 farm women in Hempstead county have been organized into 12 clubs. Seventy-three demonstrations in canning have been given. Over 235 cans of vegetables and fruits have been canned under her supervision. In addition to 1000 cans of meat, in the drouth relief program.

Lynn L. Smith, county agent, spoke on "Farm Leadership," and on "Soil Improvement." A report from Mr. Smith on the activities of the county agent for 1930 was handed out at the close of the meeting. This summary will be published in The Star at a later date.

N. P. O'Neal, champion in the art of brick manufacturing gave a very interesting demonstration on "Soil Preservation."

George Johnson, one among the leading farmers of the county spoke briefly.

Several songs were sung by the audience. These songs were directed by E. P. Young of the Young Chevrolet Co., who was assisted at the piano by Mrs. Wellbourn. Miss Iva Hipp, assistant secretary of Hope Chamber of Commerce rendered two vocal solos, which were appreciated by those present.

At the close of the meeting every person present raised their right hand in a pledge to do everything possible for county agricultural work and as being heartily in favor of the Hempstead county agents.

Fordyce Looms As Football Champs

Title To Be Decided in Game at Camden November 21

Fordyce looms up today as the probable 1930 state high school football champion in Arkansas, as the result of its crushing defeat of Little Rock in the capital city, yesterday by the score of 34 to 0.

The Redbugs earned five touchdowns, two in the first quarter, two in the third, and one in the final period. Only one of the five kicks for point failed.

Little Rock fans were astounded by the tremendous offensive of the Fordyce team. Fordyce was rated equal or better, with Little Rock, but in actual play the Redbugs ran away with the game.

Yesterday's result at Little Rock makes the forthcoming game between Fordyce and Camden the real championship contest for the state. This game will be played at Camden Friday, November 21.

Neither Fordyce nor Camden has been defeated, and both teams have beaten Pine Bluff. But Fordyce won by a margin of four touchdowns, while Camden showed a margin of only one.

The Little Rock game being the last real test of strength for Fordyce and the Redbugs winning by such an overwhelming score, they will be favored to defeat Camden in that city on the 21st.

Camden, however, has the most powerful team in its history, and it defeated Pine Bluff notwithstanding the fact that Long, its star player, was out of the lineup with injuries. He will play against Fordyce and El Dorado, and the Camden team is given in some quarters an even chance to cop the state championship despite Fordyce's impressive record.

Camden has beaten Pine Bluff, Monroe, La., and other highly-rated teams—Monroe being last year's state champions in Louisiana.

Camden plays Hope here next Friday, November 7, but the game has no bearing on the championship race, Hope having been defeated, and with little chance to hold down the powerful Camden eleven.

The windup of state high school football will bring some interesting clashes between leading eleven. Camden plays Fordyce on the 21st and El Dorado on Thanksgiving day.

El Dorado, which has lost only to Little Rock, 12 to 0, in an early season game, still has to play Camden, Pine Bluff and Fordyce. A defeat in any one of these games for Fordyce and Camden, would smear the championship race with uncertainty. At present Fordyce and Camden are the only undefeated major high school eleven in the state, and barring accidents one of them will be state champion for 1930.

Hays Opposed to Amendment No. 22

Attacks Four of Last Seven Amendment Proposals

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Adoption of proposed Amendment No. 22 providing for budgeting of state revenues "may seriously impair a thorough-going re-organization" of the state government, Brooks Hays, Little Rock attorney, said in a radio address tonight in which he pleaded for a "fair hearing" of the forthcoming report of the Bureau of Municipal Research which is expected to recommend a re-organization of state governmental affairs.

Mr. Hays, runner-up in the August gubernatorial primary race, was one of a number of speakers appearing at radio station KGOJ in a "forum" in discussion of the two initiated acts and nine proposed constitutional amendments to be voted upon at the general election next Tuesday.

"In the interest of the state's progress," he said, "let nothing be done to embarrass the re-organization program. With approximately 100 independent bureaus, boards and commissions, the people literally demand a simplified government, and the governor is entitled to and may expect the co-operation of every patriotic citizen in this movement. Let the administration lay the re-organization report before the public as soon as possible, inviting public discussion, making it possible for Arkansas to take this forward step. I am not committing myself in advance to the bureau's plan—I am only pleading that the report be given a fair hearing. I confidently expect the forthcoming report to provide the basis for a genuine and worthwhile re-organization. If the administration will accept the grave responsibility of sponsoring a comprehensive re-organization program I believe courageous leadership will be found in the legislature to stand against the expected opposition of the spoilsmen and office holders affected by the recommendations."

Mr. Hays said he personally would vote against four of the even proposed amendments submitted by the Arkansas Taxpayers Protective Association, but would support the other three.

One of the three was amendment 21, which would provide that no bill passed by the legislature become law until the journal entries showing its passage shall have been reported to each house and filed with the secretary of state. He favored also amendment No. 24, which would provide that mandamus proceedings could be instituted to compel the governor to call special elections to fill vacancies in office mentioned in Article VII of the constitution, and for measures submitted under the initiative and referendum amendment. He said he also favored amendment 25, which would provide that the salary of supreme court justices be not lowered. Amendment 21, which would prohibit the raising of any tax rate by the legislature, was vigorously opposed by Mr. Hays who said he doubted the wisdom of amending the constitution in such manner.

He opposed amendment 26, which would provide for abolishing the present inheritance tax rates in Arkansas, restricting such rates to those now levied by the federal government.

Amendment 27, which would abolish back tax suits, also was opposed by Mr. Hays on the ground that it should not be incorporated in the constitution, but is a matter which can be adequately handled by legislative acts.

Mr. Hays confined his address solely to the seven amendments sponsored by the Arkansas Taxpayers Protective association.

Fleagle's Loot is Object of Search

Fortune Hunters Throng Hills on Arkansas-Missouri Line

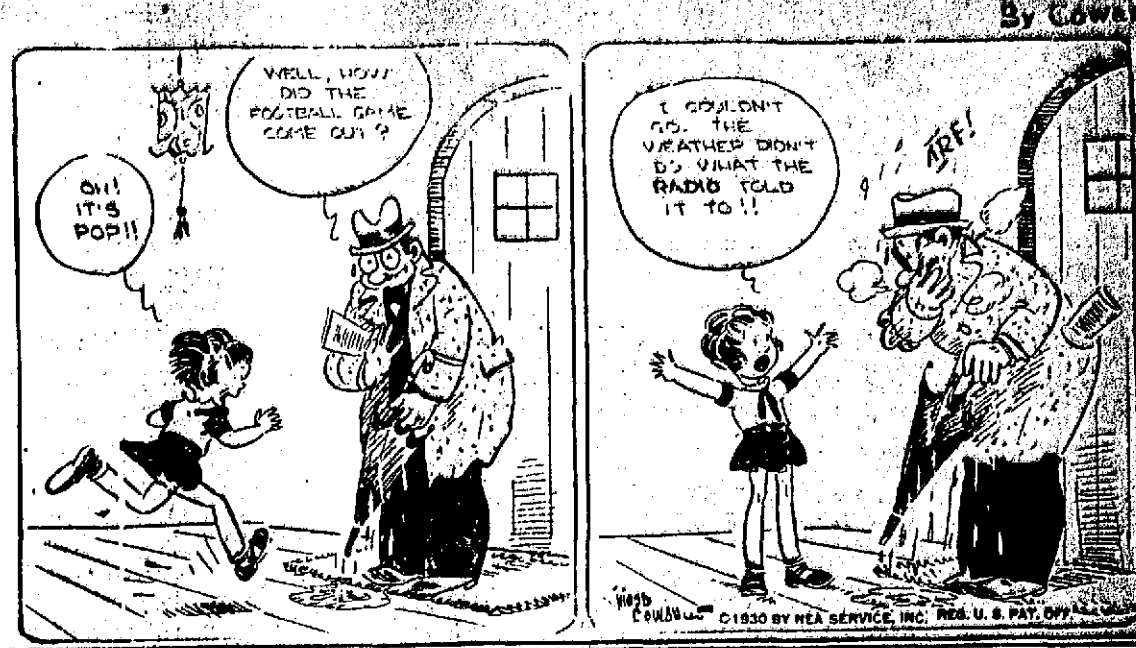

OMAHA, Ark., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The supposed loot of Jake Fleagle, notorious bandit and bank robber killed recently by officers near Branson, Mo., is proving a lodestone to scores of fortune hunters.

Fleagle occupied a farm seven miles west of here for more than a year, under the name of "Cooke," and upon land is thought by the searchers to be the loot obtained by the bandit in his escapades in many states.

Some of the more optimistic searchers estimate the loot at from half a million to a million dollars in value. Vernon Todd of Hollister, Mo., who has charge of the farm, has found it necessary to enlist aid of officers to prevent damage to buildings and other property by the horde of fortune hunters.

A virgin forest covers a large portion of the farm, and in the hills are numerous caves wherein the searchers believe Fleagle hid money.

First Picture of Fighting in Revolution in Brazil Recent

It was a well-equipped federal army that faced Brazilian rebel forces on the 200-mile Sao Paulo-Parana front and in the above action photo, taken for Hope Star and NEA Service, you see a unit of field artillery which opposed the advance of the revolutionaries. The gun crew is operating a modern field piece in the drive against the rebel movement on the city of Sao Paulo. Casualties throughout the civil war were slight.

OUR LIBRARY

One of the chief factors in school life is the library. It has taken a new and more important place in the modern education than it did in the past. Education is to fulfill its purpose, it must be a preparation for life. Good literature is the essence of education and leads to all that is just and beautiful and even more, it is actually a source of pleasure instead of a task. It is the only way to reach the heart and to lead to the best of the human mind. It is the only way to reach the heart and to lead to the best of the human mind. It is the only way to reach the heart and to lead to the best of the human mind.

Our library has been written and is a great deal more than a collection of books. It is a place where the mind can find rest and where the heart can find comfort. It is a place where the mind can find rest and where the heart can find comfort. It is a place where the mind can find rest and where the heart can find comfort.

Modern Equipment Needed In Library

Equipment and New Books Needed to Offset Students' Demand

In Hope High School, as in every well-ordered high school, there is the need of a well-equipped library. This calls for an abundance of reliable reference books, encyclopedias, books of knowledge and the works of great writers.

The library in Senior High School is sadly lacking in these things. As it is the center of attraction to most of the students and the books are certainly being read, the library should be improved in such a way to make it a credit to the school.

To induce the students to return books belonging to the library more promptly, our librarian should have a bulletin board on which could be listed every day the names of those with overdue books.

The library also needs more classical and modern fiction that students may read and receive credit for.

Some other things our library is in need of are a rack or file for the books and magazines that are not being used, a file for the newspapers, and more shelves in the stack-room for filing back numbers of magazines.

The seating arrangement of the library is very crowded because it must sometimes be used as a study hall and the room does not have enough windows and electric lights to give sufficient light for studying.

This is written in hope of calling the attention of the readers of the Hope High Bobcat to the inability of the present library in supplying the needs of the students in Senior High School.

And it also hoped that we may have a library in our new building that any person or student of Hope, Arkansas will be proud of.

A Few Facts About Hope High School Library

THE RULES AND KEEPERS OF THE LIBRARY

The Teachers that keep the library are:

Second Period	Autrey
Third Period	Winborn
Fourth Period	Reid
Fifth Period	Harrison
Sixth Period	Harrison

The rules of the club are that each pupil has a separate seat to be in before the third bell rings. If he is not in it, he is tardy.

A pupil is allowed to take out one book for a week and either return it or renew the subscription. If a book is kept out over a week without a renewal the pupil is fined five cents the first day and one cent each additional day. The teacher is supposed to see that the library rules are obeyed.

The pupils in the library are allowed to read any magazine or newspaper providing they are replaced to their assigned places.

AFTERNOON LIBRARIANS

The library is kept every afternoon by a teacher for a period of thirty minutes. During this time pupils are allowed to check a book in or out.

The librarians for the afternoons are as follows:

Monday	Miss Autrey
Tuesday	Miss Winborn
Wednesday	Mr. Reynolds
Thursday	Mr. Hinesley
Friday	Miss Harrison

Hope Library Meets N. C. A. Requirements

It seems that Hope High School has no limit for its improvements. Now we are a member of the North Central Association having met all requirements made by the association and when the new school is built Hope High will have one of the best school libraries in the state, if not the best.

a. Schools of 1,000 or more pupils, at least one full-time librarian who is professionally trained and holds a bachelor's degree or its equivalent.

b. Schools of less than 1,000 pupils, part-time teacher-librarian with technical library training.

c. Proper allowance to be made for Books and Periodicals

a. Catalogued library of 800 live books chosen so as to serve school needs.

b. About 15 periodicals chosen to serve the school needs.

c. Proper allowance to be made for public library aid.

Exchange

CAMDEN—Camden's victory Saturday over Pine Bluff Zebra at Pine Bluff was the first time in the history of the two schools that Camden has ever defeated Pine Bluff. The score 12 to 7 does not indicate the superiority of the Panthers over the Zebras Saturday.

Fumbles and penalties prevented Camden from scoring further while throughout the entire game with the exception of a short time in the closing quarter Camden had the ball in Zebra territory.

Absence of Capt. Long, high scoring back for the state, for three quarters also was felt. The Panther leader suffered a badly sprained ankle on the very first play of the second quarter and had to retire. His offensive work was keenly missed as he was counted on to gain much ground as well as to lead the other backs in blocking and running interference.

FAYETTEVILLE—The Fayetteville High School Bulldogs completely outplayed the Ozark High School team Saturday. Dvorachek and Holt checked throughout the game. Dvorachek crossed the opponents line twice, and Holt and Rushing once.

The entire Bulldog team worked hard for their victory.

Fayetteville—Clash of the Fayetteville and Springdale high school elevens, or Harmon Field Friday afternoon will be Homecoming for the local institution.

CAMDEN—The Camden Panthers have come back victorious from their visit to Pine Bluff, and naturally the boys and the fans are happy at the outcome of the foray into enemy territory.

For the team itself, however, the most important outcome of that journey and gridiron battle is the knowledge that has been gained from experts who have watched both Fordyce and Camden play, that the Panthers have to "toughen up" a lot more, if they hope to defeat the Red-bugs in the game that is rapidly approaching.

The Camden team faced its first really tough battle when it went against the Pine Bluff Panthers, and that fight gave the home fans their first opportunity to really size up the boys. And now the fans, the team and the coaches have buckled down, for intensive training and for the work necessary to make the boys hard enough to stand up to and especially to perfect their defense against an aerial attack.

Check-up of the boys shows that about all they need is these two things—more hardening, on and off the field, and faster charging on offense. The boys have several weeks to gain these objectives—and with them there will be little doubt as to the outcome of the Fordyce-Camden game.

JONESBORO—Basketball prospects Basketball prospects were exceptionally bright at Jonesboro High School until things turned up like they have the past few days. With Bud Covington and Stanley Keller running forwards, Bib Bob Downs jumping center and Ferdinand Dreher and Donald Keller guards, the team would be plenty hard to beat. But in addition to the mentioned line-up, Himes, all-state man from Imboden who performed with the Sloan Hendrix five last season, would be on hand for a forward berth and number of young players of first class caliber are coming up for a whirl at the Hurricane squad. Covington and the Keller boys leaving the team would knock a huge hole in the chances for a state championship team but a good five could still be organized. The hopes of the Gold and Black seem to hang in the balance with the result of a mighty effort to get work for the boys being the whole chance of the great team that was in prospect.

Then, in addition to the men who are about to drop out of school, efforts are being made to prove that Big Bob Downs, man-mountain center is ineligible because of his age. If that is done and Bob is thrown out, too, then Jonesboro will be on the dark side of the basketball picture this season again. Just how it will all turn out is a problem that will require the work of many to solve.

Hattie Ann—(Just Kissed) I did not think you were that kind.

Clyde—I am even kinder than that.

French Club

The French club met Tuesday, October 28. The meeting was called to order and bits of business were discussed among the members of the club. The meeting was then turned over to J. F. McClanahan, chairman of the program committee.

The following program was rendered:

Caesar Conquers Gaul—Winston Cobb.

French Revolution—Clifford Wilson.

The program was thoroughly enjoyed by very member of the club and the hope that all the following programs will be appreciated as well.

Pep Squad Enjoys The Gurdon Trip

The Entire Pep Squad and Band Made Trip With Football Team

At 1 o'clock Thursday mid hooped shouts! and gaily decorated cars, the entire Pep Squad started on their journey to Gurdon. Miss Autrey, our good sponsor, led the line with her glowing bunch of rosters, next was Martha Cantley, Winter Cannon, Happy Pritchard and so on down the line. In all there were about ten cars from Hope, some with Pep Squad girls and others with faithful business men and loyal supporters. There were songs in this car, yells in that car, but "where there is joy, there is bound to be sorrow" for in many cars the praises of the pep squad were being sung, things called "flats," "blow-outs," "punctures," which ever you want to call them, they are all the same. Those who were in front of the "procession" and who were affected with these little happenings were passed by the more fortunate ones and left to their fate. From two until three o'clock Hope cars were seen to appear at the ball park at Gurdon. Those struggling who came in last were greeted by other girls shouting with anxious voices to "Hurry" or "Come on!" "The games started," and such. Hurriedly tickets were bought and more hurriedly were girls to get to the rest of the gang and start yelling for the "boys" were already lumbering up and "Charlie" was bidding them luck.

The Go Devils cheer leaders were garbed in yellow sailor breeches with a purple stripe up them, purple shirts or blouses on and yellow eton jackets. The others had on purple sailor breeches with yellow stripes up them, yellow blouses and purple eton jackets.

Of course, we thought the white flannel skirts and white shirts were more effective. The band boys had sympathy for we girls, having to go out on the field to form the "H" in our shirt sleeves and let us wear their dirty band sweaters. Their sweaters had on costumes more effective because they brought out the color "red."

Here, we, the Pep Squad, want to announce that the previous statement made concerning our ordering new sweaters with the Bobcat emblem on them must be withdrawn, owing to the extremely great difficulty we have had in getting them. The remaining part of the football season we intend to wear our white skirts, white shirts and bits of red and white ribbon or make capes for other decoration of our costumes. We are very sorry and hope that next year, if we have a squad, we will fit both in costumes and voices. Speaking of voices, we had plenty of voices at the Gurdon game, and, though we were won over by one touchdown, we weren't to be quitted for starting back between 5:30 and 6:00, the girls sang until they reached "Dear Old Hope." Neither were we to be downhearted in spirit because, as we all know, the old song is "Bobcat Spirit Will Never Die!"

We'll do our best with Camden, but ah! for just one peak at Prescott and a winning victory (oh! you just wait and see).

We, the "Peppers," were very obedient to the school officials. We had no dates with boys and no dates with girls. We took no change for drug stores and wore our costumes up there and kept them on!

Organization

The Commercial Club held their weekly meeting Tuesday October 28. The minutes were read by the secretary, Grace Gray. There was one new member present, Molly C. Jones and Aubrey Woods gave an interesting office skit. Then an office typing and bookkeeping contest was presented to the amusement of the entire club. Effie McCulley's side won in the typing contest and William Bundy's side for bookkeeping contest.

Girl's Physical Education

The members of the Girl's Physical Education met in the auditorium Wednesday at the city period. Miss Lee, the club sponsor, was absent and Eleanor Foster was in charge of the exercises.

Travel Club

The members of the Travel club met on Wednesday, October 22, for an informal meeting. Each member had been asked to bring interesting pictures and clippings of Hope. After the artist of the class had been elected the members began to arrange their pictures and clippings in their Arkansas scrapbook. A scrapbook will be made of every state traveled. Next Wednesday reports will be made of the various springs of Arkansas.

French Club

The French club met Tuesday, October 28. The meeting was called to order and bits of business were discussed among the members of the club. The meeting was then turned over to J. F. McClanahan, chairman of the program committee.

The following program was rendered:

Bobcat Recognized by other Editors

University of Arkansas Praises Hope High School's Edition

It seems as though our "Hope High Bobcat" is pleasing someone else besides Mr. Milburn and Miss Henry, as the editor received a letter Monday from the journalism department of the University of Arkansas, praising the "Bobcat" and offering a few suggestions that might make it the best school paper in this district.

The record drouth of the past summer has played havoc with the plans of Arkansas high school journalists in that limited finances will permit the publication of a weekly or monthly school paper, but they have been helped in a measure by the city daily, or the county weekly newspapers to give practice and training in the newspaper work. We are certainly fortunate in having a good city newspaper like the Hope Star and a generous editor like Mr. Alex. Weshburn to give us a page once a week for our "Bobcat," for otherwise our school journalists would be out of a job.

"Hope High Bobcat" published every Saturday in the Hope Star. Hilburn Graves is editor and his first issue, October 11, is a peach. The makeup of the page is attractive. Plenty of news and features, and two editorials. Too bad the printer had to use NEA matter to fill up the page. The Bobcat has a business manager. We'd like to know what his duties are, since there are no circulation or advertising problems on a school page in a city paper."

We're all going to try to remedy our faults and make our paper still better.

New Books

Many interesting and instructive new books have been purchased for the Hope High School library.

Library and Southern Literature published by Martin and Hoyt furnishes seventeen volumes of worth while reading. The works of many great Southern writers are published in these books.

The World's Best 100 Detective Stories is a series of ten volumes. Extracts from all great detective stories may be found in the series published by Funk & Wagnall. These books are being checked out daily and read; the readers say they are very interesting.

The Outlook of Knowledge by Richards is a twenty volume set. For reference work these volumes are practically invaluable. These books contain interesting reading of sciences, arts, interesting people and other valuable items. This set is a wonderful addition to our school library.

The reference books are being used daily on the line for history and science.

What one of Miss Winburn's classes subscribed for the Literary Digest, the company made a present of a set of good detective books there were ten volumes in all and the pupils are reading them very much which shows they are good.

Miss Winburn donated them to the library after the Funk & Wagnall Co. had presented them to her.

The pupils thank both Miss Winburn and the Funk & Wagnall Co.

Youths' Hail of Lead Finally Kills Big Bear

HAYNE, Wyo., Oct. 31.—(UP)—There are two ways it can be done with a small 22 calibre rifle—one, a well placed bullet between the eyes, a second, a leaden hail.

Jack Osmond, 12, of Orin, 13, chased the latter method and fired many leaden missiles into the body of a large bear that through the law of averages once found a vital spot.

J. D.—Were you ever bothered with athlete's foot?

Ikey—Yeah, once when the captain of the team caught me meeking his girl.

Native—Are the fish biting?

They are, they are biting each other.

Ou, Sah!

"Cause de moon be shine in de night when we need de light, but de sun be shine in de day when light ab ob consequence."

Miss—Can you serve company?

New Maid—"Yes, either way."

Miss—"Either way?"

New Maid—"Yes, ma'am so's they'll come again and so's they won't."

Husband—"What? you don't mean to say you are going shopping in this rain?"

Wife—"Of course, I am. I've saved up $4 for a rainy day, and this is the first opportunity I've had to spend it."

The Dope Bucket

By DOC

Our next game is with Camden, rated as the strongest team of the state. Officials are trying to arrange the schedule so as to give the team a better chance to rest up between the game with Camden, our beloved opponent and Prescott, our beloved rivals.

The awarding of the most valuable player trophy this year will be a hard task. Bill Wray, our flashy little three letter man, and a consistent ground gainer as a back, Captain Harrell a hard hitting back and sure tackler, Neal Bacon, the stumpy battering-ram, and Ike Pritchett, the star end, are the boys who are in the running for the award. But, no matter we win it, the other boys will have to be given credit, as it takes eleven men to make a football team.

Practically the entire team will be back next year. The boys who will graduate this year are Captain Harrell, Bill Wray, and Ralph Moser. There are several Freshmen to take their places. Among some of the Freshman candidates are Brown Mauldin, Andrews, Turner, Stroud, Richards and Crawford.

Basket ball prospects are very good this year, but that is a little too distant to think about.

News of former Bobcats tells of Jack Robison and Earl Seecrest playing side by side in the University of Arkansas line, Fat Schooley and Elwood Meadows are opponents attending Ouachita and Henderson State Teachers, respectively, Ralph Taylor, last year's halfback is gaining a good reputation in and around Birmingham, Alabama, as a light-heavy boxer.

Demand Increases For Light Airplanes

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(UP)—Use of light airplanes for hard military and commercial service appears to be constantly growing.

Eighty-three Moth light planes are now being constructed. When they are completed and tested the Royal Air Force will use them for training and general service duties.

The New Zealand Military of Defense has also ordered eight light planes, and ten are being constructed for the Chinese Air corps.

Four of the planes built for China will be equipped with interchangeable float undercarriages. One of the planes ordered by the New Zealand is also to be fitted for sea work.

One British company alone has new contracts for light aircraft totalling $340,200.

New Magazines

The students of Hope High School are very fortunate in having a number of magazines to help in their studies. Much material can be gotten from magazines and newspapers and they help the student in many ways. Some of the World's greatest magazines and newspapers, together with a number of college newspapers make up the high school collection.

The magazines which come to our library are: Asia, Atlantic Monthly, Bookman, Current History, Golden Book, Harpers, Living Age, Magazine World, Nature Magazine, New Republic, New York Times Book Review, Outlook, Popular Science, Review of Reviews, Saturday Evening Post, Scribner, Scribner's, Worlds, Wicks, National Geographic Magazine, Popular Mechanics, Drama, Gregg Writer, American Girl, American Issue, American Motorist, Arkansas Agriculturist, Holiday, New York Times Magazine, New Review, Pictorial Review, Psychology.

The newspapers are: New York Times Weekly; Mid Week Pictorial; Arkansas Gazette.

French Allot Nudists Tract on Mediterranean

PARIS, Oct. 31.—(UP)—The French Government has surrendered to the Nudists and allotted them a part of the Kabylie Mountains on the Mediterranean shores of Algeria as a reservation.

The Kabylie range was chosen because it is hundreds of miles from any town and inhabited only by a few nomad tribes of unfriendly Arabs. There the Nudists can gambol unclothed and the Kabylie mountains boast of 349 days of sunshine.

The first groups of Nudist have gone to the Kabylies, including 40 men and women. They are members of the "Nude in Entirety" group, who do not even allow a pair of sandals to interfere with complete nakedness.

Leslie—Did excessive drinking ever bother your health?

Thomas—Yeah, it did once when I couldn't pay for the drinks.

Norman—Say, there ought to be a cooling system in this house.

Fuggy—There is, my dad sits in when I have company.

Coach—If you'd earned forty dollars a week, and gave your mother twenty dollars what would she have?

A. B.—Heart failure.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CELIA MITCHELL, 17, leaves Baltimore where she has lived with her eccentric mother, MARGARET MITCHELL, to join her wealthy father, JOHN MITCHELL, in New York. The parents are divorced and Mrs. Rogers is a widow following a second marriage.

CELIA MITCHELL, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl, Mitchell, who is the daughter of her mother's friend, Mr. Parsons. She soon becomes jealous of the girl and schemes to get rid of her by encouraging a romance between Celia and TOBY JOHNSON, a handsome but of dubious character.

Although Mitchell forbids Celia to see Johnson, she goes about with the young man frequently. LIZ DUNCAN, a girl of Celia's age, becomes her loyal friend. She comes to New York to work for a photographic service and meets Celia. She tells him she has lost her heart to Johnson.

One evening the building in which she is working catches fire. The terror Celia feels when she learns he is safe brings her to a realization that it is she who really loves and that her infatuation for Johnson is only a fancy. She tells him she has no opportunity to talk to him privately.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV
AFTERWARD Celia knew that she herself was to blame for what happened. Mrs. Parsons had an engagement for dinner and bridge and the girl dined alone. She could have telephoned someone and had company, but she preferred solitude. It gave her opportunity to think of Barney and plan the future.

Even though it had been annoying not to have the opportunity to talk to him alone, she was proud of the impression Barney had made on Mrs. Parsons. Celia told herself that what she had to say to the young man would keep—not for very long.

She decided to telephone him in the morning. Barney lived at a young men's club, an institution which was not social, but provided a surprising degree of comfort at low cost.

For one impetuous moment after she had left the dining room and lay back against the blue and silver divan Celia thought of calling him at once. She hesitated. No, it would be better to wait. She made up her mind that she would ask Barney to meet her somewhere. The Park Plaza would do.

Her dreaming was interrupted by the ringing of a bell. The maid had been dismissed for the evening. Celia went to the door.

"Father!" she cried. "Come in—I'm so glad to see you!"

John Mitchell entered, kissed his daughter dutifully, and put aside hat and gloves.

"Are you alone?" he asked.

"Yes, Mrs. Parsons had an engagement and I've been sitting here wishing for someone to talk to. You couldn't have timed your arrival more perfectly."

"That's good. Just happened to be in the neighborhood and thought I'd drop in. Why didn't you let me know you wanted company? We could have had dinner together and seen a play."

"I wish I had. I really didn't know Evelyn was going out until just before she was leaving."

They talked of trivialities for several minutes. Celia asked about her grandmother and learned that she would be back in the city next month. Mrs. Mitchell's health had entirely recovered.

"That reminds me," Mitchell said. "Mother thinks October 15 will be the date for you to sail. She asked me to book passage. That's—let's see, not quite three weeks from today."

CELIA sat up wide-eyed. "Sail—you mean me?" she asked.

"Yes. Surely you haven't forgotten you're to spend the winter in France? I distinctly remember mother said she talked to you about it."

"Oh, yes. Of course."

"Don't you want to go?" Mitchell asked. The girl's attitude was puzzling.

Celia nodded. "Yes," she said. "Only I didn't know—well, I really haven't been thinking about it. After grandmother became ill I thought perhaps she wouldn't care to go."

What Celia meant but did not wish to say was that she had serious doubts about her grandmother's feeling toward her. The girl did not want to appear ungrateful, but prospects of a winter anywhere with Mrs. Mitchell were terrifying.

"Well, I'm glad I mentioned it," Mitchell said complacently. "Get Evelyn to help you get your clothes ready. Guess you'll be sorry to leave Evelyn, won't you?"

"I'll miss her a lot."

"There was a pause, and in those moments Celia missed her opportunity. She had been trying ever since her father's arrival to tell him about Barney Shields. How could she call to Europe now and leave Barney?

She tried to frame the words, but they would not come. She was groping for a means of introducing the subject when Mitchell rose.

"I believe you're tired tonight, Celia," he said. "Better go to bed early. It's time for me to be getting along anyhow. Tell Evelyn I'm sorry I missed her, will you?"

The girl assured him that she would, went to the door with him and said good night. Then she returned to the living room and sat for a while staring out at the night. At last she went to her own room, undressed and slipped into a negligee.

A whole new series of problems were presenting themselves to Celia. The months ahead loomed ominously. Life had been so comfortable during the past weeks that she had scarcely given a thought to the time when she would return to her grandmother's home. To find it before her—scarcely three weeks away—was startling.

The lazy happiness in which she had been drifting since Barney Shields' visit faded. How did she know what might happen if she went away for six months? At thought of her grandmother's ambitious plans for a social career Celia rebelled.

As usual in moments of despair the girl's thoughts ran to Margaret Rogers. If only her mother were there she would know what to do.

In sudden haste Celia got out paper and pen and began to compose a letter to Mrs. Rogers. She told the whole story of meeting Barney in New York, telling him she cared more for Jordan, and then how realization had come that it was Barney she loved. It was a long while before she finished the letter. When it was sealed in its envelope, stamped, addressed and put aside ready to post, she felt relieved.

Still she was not asleep. Celia selected a magazine, curled up in a big chair and began to read.

She was still reading when she heard footsteps outside the door. It was nearly midnight.

"Is that you, Evelyn?" Celia called. She jumped up and opened the door leading into the hall.

"Mrs. Parsons appeared."

"I was trying to be quiet not to wake you," she said.

"Oh, but I wasn't asleep! I've just been reading. Come in and tell me about the evening. Did you enjoy it?"

MRS. PARSONS' pink-tipped fingers rose to her lips to stifle a yawn. "Rather a bore," she said in languid tone. "Some cousin of Fannie's was there, and he was so stupid. Insisted on talking about Arizona or some such place all the while!"

Mrs. Parsons sat down, carefully smoothing the gold lace of her gown about her.

"Too bad," Celia sympathized. "I had a surprise. Father called."

"Your father?"

"Yes, he wanted me to tell you he was sorry to miss you. But, oh, Evelyn, I've got the most awful news! Grandmother's going to take me to France!"

"For the winter, you mean?"

"When does she plan to sail?"

"The 15th of next month. I don't want to go at all, but I suppose I'll have to!"

"Most girls would be pleased."

"Yes, I know, but—well, there are a lot of reasons."

Evelyn Parsons smiled archly. "I can guess one of them," she said. "A certain young man?"

Celia colored. "Well, partly," she admitted, "but that isn't all."

She was silent for a moment and then the words burst forth. "Oh, if things could only be different! Do you know what I want more than anything else in the world? I want my father and mother—" both! I'd give up everything else if only I could have a home like other girls. Evelyn, do you think there is anything I could do to bring them together again?"

Mrs. Parsons' face froze. Celia was so aroused that she did not notice how the pupils of the woman's eyes seemed to grow smaller, nor did she see the look of pure rage Evelyn flashed on her.

"How could it do any harm?" Celia persisted. "Maybe if father understood what it means to me he'd be willing to see mother and talk to her about it. She'd do it. I know she would! Maybe I wouldn't have to go to Europe. Evelyn, I'm going to ask him!"

"You mean—?" Evelyn Parsons began, struggling to control her voice.

"I mean I'm going to ask father to go to see mother. I'll tell him she still cares for him. Oh, I'm sure it's true!"

MRS. PARSONS stood up.

"If you'll excuse me," she said in an odd, unnatural tone. "I must get this dress off. Good night. In the morning we can talk."

"Good night, Evelyn. Won't it be wonderful if it really happens?"

"There was no answer to that exclamation because the door had closed on Evelyn Parsons' back. Celia, blissfully unaware of storm clouds, turned out the light and was soon asleep.

Shortly after breakfast next morning she telephoned to Barney. She took care to use the telephone in the foyer when no one else was about. Celia had no idea that, at a word from her maid, Evelyn Parsons cautiously lifted the French telephone in her dressing room an instant later and that Barney's hearty "Good morning!" was as clear to Evelyn's ears as to her own.

"How's the arm this morning?" Celia asked.

"Seems to be all right. How're you?"

Celia said rather hastily that she was quite well. She added that she was anxious to see him, and if it was agreeable would be at Central Park Plaza at 3:15. Could he meet her there?

He could and he would. Celia said goodby, and with a quick look behind her put down the telephone.

An hour and a half later John Mitchell, seated at a desk in his impressive legal office, was informed that there was a woman waiting to see him. He glanced at the card.

"Show her in!" he said quickly. When the door opened again he was on his feet, smiling.

"Evelyn—this is a pleasant surprise!"

Evelyn Parsons did not smile. "I had to see you, John!" she said in a tense voice. "Oh, I've just had such shocking news. It's Celia—"

Beautiful Jeta's French 'Temper' Just a Dream, Her Fiance Declares

JETTA GOUDAL

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 1.—(P)—Many movie fans might think Harold Grieve the world's bravest bridegroom-to-be.

Grieve's intended bride is Jeta Goudal, French actress whose widespread reputation for "temperamental outbursts" ended her screen career.

Grieve is a slimish, pleasant fellow with a great sense of humor, which is shared by his future bride.

"The truth is," he laughs, "that Jeta isn't temperamental at all. She won't do anything unless she can take time to do it right."

"She was like that in the studios, and they called it 'temperament.' And she is like that in our work, which is exactly as she should be. We get along fine."

"Our work" referred to the decoration of John Gilbert's new beach home. Grieve is an interior decorator, and Jeta is helping him on that job.

Miss Goudal heartily agrees with what Grieve says about her. She laughs off the stories of her temperamental as she does the tales of a "mystery" surrounding her origin.

Last year Cecil B. DeMille, producer-director, and the star has legal difficulties over an alleged breach of contract and her title as "most temperamental movie actress" was clinched.

Jeta won in the courts. DeMille labeled her a "French cocktail of emotions."

But the end of her screen career was indirectly responsible for her fortune in films. Miss Goudal busied herself by decorating her apartment, and her work was admired by other film celebrities.

Paul Bern, a producer, commissioned her to decorate his own new place, but his interrupted. Bern could not wait, and Grieve was called in to do the work. Jeta assisted in its completion. Thus they met, for the first time, as competitors.

That was in June—three months later their engagement was announced.

Bad Memory Cause of Pen Sentences

Two Men Forgot That It Is Important to Remember Details of Weather

BATESVILLE, Oct. 31.—(P)—Poor memory regarding the weather was responsible for a hurried trial here today in the cases of Edward Justus and Harrison Warfield, charged with passing worthless checks.

The two were arrested some time ago with John Farmer, the three being charged with visiting the farm of Z. T. Crow, where they bought twelve bushels of potatoes, paying for them with worthless checks. They left part of the potatoes agreeing to return for them the next day.

After the men failed to return and the checks were found to be worthless they were arrested in court.

Upon being questioned in court today they said they failed to go back after the remainder of the potatoes the following day on account of a drenching rain. The weather records on that date were then introduced and showed that the day in question was a fair day, the sun shining all day long. At this point the defense attorney entered a plea of guilty and the trial was stopped.

The two were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Farmer had formerly received the same sentence.

One Never Knows About These Football Games

The earliest expert who breaks into print these days with predictions about football games is inviting disgrace. Once upon a time you could sit down with a pencil and paper and figure out most of the big games in advance.

On the coast the "Big Three" of California already has been overturned by Babe Hollingberry's Washington State Cougars. The unregarded State eleven beat California and Southern California on successive Saturdays, kicking the dope receptacle all over the place.

Georgia took Yale down the line. Then, down in the Southern Conference, up rose Alabama and won the long string of victories Tennessee has run up during the last three years.

Vanderbilt went north and handed Minnesota a fancy pastime after which the Gophers stomped Stanford, which is what you have to call the feat of holding the big Warner eleven to a scoreless tie.

Wisconsin was not figured as powerful until Penn took one of the best teams of recent years to Madison and sustained severe damage.

Dope Knocked Awry

In many of the games, the dope hasn't meant a thing. Harvard was expected to unloose an aerial attack that would befuddle the Army, as it turned out, the soldiers broke through and stopped the thing before it ever started. Purdue moaned about the fact that his team was going to be defeated by Carnegie Tech. The Tarn line was composed of the morning ogres. It developed that most of the fire-breathing was on the part of the Notre Dame line, which played at a new height of fury.

Purdue seemed strong as the Big Ten started proceedings, but Michigan stepped in with a quar-

Illinois was expected to prove a stumbling block to Northwestern. It didn't turn out that way at all. Northwestern romped over the Illini.

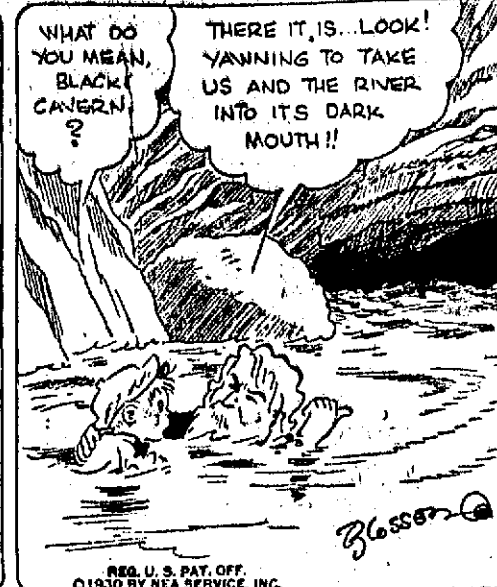

The Navy expected no more than a brisk workout against the Blue Devils of Duke University, who heretofore have not been so very impish. The Navy was swept from its feet by a violent Duke attack.

Babe Ruth Adopts Two Girls

There are four in the Ruth family now, in name as well as in fact, and here you see the baseball idol with Mrs. Ruth and the two children they have adopted. At the left is Julie Hodgson, daughter of the present Mrs. Ruth, who was a widow when he married her in April, 1929. The other child is Dorothy Helen, 5, about whose parentage a cloud of mystery has hung since 1922. In the will in which she was left most of the $50,000 estate of her mother, first wife of Babe Ruth, she was mentioned as "my beloved child and ward, Dorothy Helen Ruth, at one time known as Marie Harrington." The children, however, have lived together as sisters in the Ruth household, and their parents by adoption long have been "dad" and "mother" to them.

usually are too large for pulpwood.

The new white paper sample was made at a paper mill in a metal basket suspended inside a "digester" which was otherwise filled with spruce undergoing the regular sulphite process. Not only did the supposedly stubborn slash pine digest as easily as the spruce, said Dr. Herty, but it whitened with the same amount of bleach. Its fibers were as long and as strong as spruce.

"This is the first time so far as I am aware," he said, "that slash pine has been made into this grade of white paper."

"Experiments now under way, but not yet completed, indicate that the same thing can be done with long leaf pine."

"I obtained these results through experiments in paper mills performed through the courtesy of my friends. If the South is going to put its 150 million acres of cutover lands and abandoned farms to profitable reforestation you have got to be able to answer the questions of the paper manufacturers as to what you trees will do."

"You have got to go into research and get the answers quickly. If I can get the results I bring here through courtesy experiments, it is worth your while to establish a scientific research plant, one such as nowhere exists in Georgia now for, this purpose. The work must be done in the true research spirit, which gets to the truth, and makes its results public to the world to let everyone profit by them."

Dr. Herty said that for each 200 mature trees produced on a reforested acre, about 800 young trees, suitable for pulpwood, would be removed in the regular course of thinning out.

Youths Get Furlough To Support Family

MAGNOLIA, Ark., Oct. 31.—A letter from Governor Parnell received here Thursday says he has issued an indefinite furlough for Roy and Howard Roberts on condition that they give their best efforts to the support of their widowed mother and family.

The boys were convicted of burglary and grand larceny at the August term of court here for breaking into a Hopo candy truck at their home at Emerson in July and stealing candy. The boys are 16 and 18 years old and were serving their term of two years at Tucker farm when they were given a furlough Saturday to attend the funeral of their father, Howard F. Roberts, who killed himself Friday at his home in Springhill, Louisiana. Following the conviction of his sons he moved his wife and four other children to Springhill, La., where he was employed in the oil fields. He was very despondent after visiting the boys in prison and brooding over the affair was said to be the cause of suicide.

Burglars Rob Office of Sheriff at Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Tex., Oct. 31.—(AP)—When Sheriff Henry Brooks and District Attorney R. G. Waters arrived at their offices today they discovered a burglar had entered through the transom and taken all the stamps from their desks.

"Let Us Spray," Say Bishops

Days of "sponge-sucking" among football players at Ohio Wesleyan University are gone forever, all because of an invention by Head Coach George Gauthier. The Battling Bishops now get water to drink and to bathe their faces from the compression spray shown above. Coach Gauthier declares the spray is not only more sanitary than a sponge but can be used more quickly, with less danger of a player getting too much water while overheated. The above photo shows Backfield Coach George Staten "watering his flowers." In this case, Tackles Bob Jones, center, and Gordon Kraft, right.

Harvester For Lespedeza Seed Is New Invention

CLARENDON, Oct. 31.—P. W. Meachem of this county demonstrated his invention of a lespedeza seed harvester at the Mid-South fair, and much interest was shown in the machine. According to E. S. McCright, assistant county agent, the seeder saves a far greater quantity of seed than any on the market at the present time. The construction of the seeding device is simple and the cost reasonable enough for most any one to purchase it.

Repealed Law Saves Man Liquor Charge Trial

GREENVILLE, Mich., Oct. 31.—(UP)—Morris Beck today is thanking members of the 1929 legislature for repealing the liquor law that was in effect in 1922.

In that year Beck was arrested under terms of the old document. When the case was called for trial he did not appear and his bond was forfeited. Since then officers have hunted him. He was apprehended recently and when brought into court to face trial the court found that the law he was arrested under had been repealed and that no action could be taken against him.

He was freed.

White Paper May Be Made in South

Chemist Believes Southern Pine May Supplant Northern Spruce

ATLANTA, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A chemist Aladdin laid before an Atlanta Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday white newspaper paper made from a new source—slash pine.

The Aladdin was Dr. Charles H. Herty, of New York, former president of the American Chemical Society. He made his discovery public without reservations, and proposed that southern business men make use of the knowledge to enrich the South.

Southern pine long has been used to make paper of a yellow variety, Dr. Herty said, but not to compete with the high grade sulfite process newspaper and white book paper made from spruce.

His new paper was made of the one variety of southern pine supposed to be the least capable of producing newspaper. It was held to contain too much resin. Last spring, Dr. Herty announced at a meeting here the discovery that resin in young slash pines is mostly myth, and Tuesday he quoted the International Paper company's research laboratory in confirmation.

Furthermore, Dr. Herty said Wednesday, there is no more resin in any of the southern pines than in spruce. The resin forms in the heart wood of the southern pines after they are about 25 years old, when he said they
